

Cotemar promotes the development of the national oil industry by creating more than 1,100 new specialized jobs

July 2, 2026

Mexico City.— Under a firm commitment to continue promoting regional social and economic development, as well as strengthening the national energy industry, Cotemar announces the addition of 1,122 jobs, which will be added to different onshore and offshore construction and maintenance projects.

This initiative represents one of the most significant operational talent movements in the Oil & Gas sector in the country this year, thus strengthening the capacity to execute projects critical to Mexico's economic stability.

Historically, the national oil industry has been a fundamental driver of the Mexican economy. Contributing approximately 3.7% of national GDP, this sector not only provides the essential energy resources for the functioning of other industries but also acts as a driving force for the trade balance and public finances.

The new positions, with highly qualified profiles at different levels and specialties—from pipefitters and riggers to certified 6G and 6GR welders, to name a few— will be integrated into strategic construction and maintenance projects with the support of state-of-the-art vessels such as Olympus and Artemis, thereby adding more than 2.4 million specialized man-hours that will directly strengthen the competitiveness of this sector.

In this regard, an official Cotemar source noted that this decision stimulates the national economy through an estimated economic impact of more than 240 million pesos annually, generated by the labor employed in these projects. This translates into a positive and direct social impact, which will generate indirect income for nearly 4,000 Mexicans distributed among families across different regions of the country, stimulating local consumption and trade in the areas where the talent originates, primarily in the states of Tampico, Veracruz, Tabasco, Campeche, and Oaxaca.

True to its social commitment and its focus on generating jobs that improve the living conditions of its personnel and the community, Cotemar guarantees fair and equitable compensation, offering decent employment conditions under formal hiring schemes, with strict industrial safety protocols and ongoing technical training programs. In this way, the company reaffirms its role as a key driver of social well-being, regional growth, and the development of the national oil industry.
